Owen Smith, AP

We will miss June. Not just her physical presence, but her sense of humor in the Outlook and when she was the Master of Ceremonies at the Change of Watch and so much she has done for Cape Lookout Sail and Power Squadron for it seems like forever. I will miss talking to her about merit marks, even if just by email. I know we are all saddened by her sudden loss, but to take a phrase that I read recently, “Let’s not grieve her loss, but celebrate that we were graced by her presence for so many years”.

As life goes on, so does activities for our squadron. The chili cookoff is coming up on October 22. That event is always a good time with great food. Please plan to attend if you can. The holidays are coming up soon starting with Halloween, then Veterans Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Years. A busy time of the year for family events as well as a few events planned by the squadron. Details appear later in the Outlook. Whatever your plans are, if you are traveling I certainly hope you are safe and return home in a timely manner.

At the end of this month, Carolyn and I will be representing CLSPS at the District 27 meeting in SC. As I noted at the last regular meeting, the theme is “A Pirate’s Life for Me”. Not terribly original in this part of the country, but it should be a fun weekend. The Moores are attending as well, and we all plan to do our best to represent you as pirates from Cape Lookout Sail and Power Squadron. I am told that what happens at the District meeting, stays at the District meeting. We’ll see.

The Outlook and other great information are available at the CLSPS website:

October has arrived and we're on the final leg of 2023! Ready about, hard-a-lee!

September's Membership Meeting was well-attended with speaker Bill Neilson, of the Coast Guard Auxiliary giving an informative and breezy slideshow discussion about our local waters. Always a good thing to have a refresher on what's out there!

The quarterly "Clean Sweep" took place this past weekend with several members attending. Thanks for keeping our beautiful town clean! Coffee/Lunch followed at Panera's.

October's activity, the big Chili Cook-Off will soon be upon us, Sunday, 10/22! Look for Elaine's details here in the Outlook! Chili, cornbread, desserts,... don't miss it! District 27 Commander Bill Beers and his wife Barb will hopefully be joining us!

Our November meeting will be a surprise! We await word from two organizations and will also have on hand some classic educational and other materials from days gone by. Navigation and other coursework will be on the side table along with some other memorabilia from CLSPS members. Bring a little something to share with our new members! SEO Bud will have information about upcoming courses to look forward to! Dinner menu options will be forthcoming. We'll let you know who's coming when I get confirmation!

I would be remiss not to mention our dear June Reasons. I know we all feel the loss of this Squadron treasure. June was a mentor to us all, and will be dearly missed. Her jokes will live on but her little boat shoes could never be filled. She was one-of-a-kind! Rest in peace dear friend! Her service will be this Sunday, 10/15/23, at the home of Helen Shine, 2106 Neuse Cliffs Drive, at 2:00 PM.

Meet at 1330 at the parking lot at the nearby Brinson Memorial Elementary School and we'll car pool from there.

There will be a Holiday Pot Luck Dinner at Ray & Linda Whitley's house, on 17 December, from 1600 to 1900. (Their address is: 4606 Helen Lane). We will also have a Gift Exchange ($15-20)—To participate bring a gift appropriate for a man or woman or either.

More to follow.

Save the Date

What: Chili, Cornbread and Dessert Cook-Off

When: October 22, 2023

Where: Good weather, Red sail Park in Fairfield Harbour at 1:30pm.

Bad Weather; Fairfield Harbour Community Center (Fire House) at 2:30

The Cape Lookout Sail and Power Squadron is having a cook-off. There will be three categories: Chili, Cornbread and Desserts. We are inviting Tar River Squadron, Pamlico Squadron and Fort Macon Squadron to participate. If you don't want to enter the competition but want to contribute you can bring a side dish of your choice. You can also bring $10 if you don't want to cook, but we will need enough people to cook so we all can eat. The Cape Lookout Squadron will provide water, tea and lemon aid along with plates, bowls and utensils. You can also BYOB if you prefer. You will be the judges of the chili, cornbread and desserts. There was a sign-up sheet at CLSPS's regular dinner meeting on September 18th. The other squadrons can get their information to me, Elaine Lechner, elechner@bellsouth.net or 678-464-7665 by October 15th.

2023 Booster Club

Only a small portion (about $17) of our dues to USPS is returned to the Cape Lookout Squadron. Money collected from our members helps defray the cost of our Dinner Meeting speakers and other incidentals (cards & flowers). We need help keeping our books in the Black.

Please contribute to the Booster Club. Any amount is helpful, but $10 per person is a suggested amount.

Bob Burget—Latest Geodetic Marker Recovery

I have been away from New Bern, traveling to Northern California. An old friend from my previous squadron and I did some geodetic marker recovery in the gold country in the Sierra foothills. We made a stop in Angels Camp in Calaveras County, home of the celebrated jumping frog contest. There was a marker on a wooden bridge over Angels Creek, hidden in the bushes.

In Sonora, there was a marker on the Tuolumne County Superior Courthouse, seen in these photos. It was placed by the US Geological Survey in 1896.

I'll be back in North Carolina in late October, looking for people to do some more activities.

BITS AND PIECES HERE IN TRENT WOODS

P/C WILLIAM J. ASH, SN, EMERITUS

It was forty-eight degrees Fahrenheit outside the house and seventy-five degrees Fahrenheit outside the bed-covers. I almost froze. The sweltering heat of summer has turned to the cold temperatures of autumn and my peripheral nerves are reacting rather poorly, causing the accompanying muscle masses to fest up and hurt. Twenty-eight plus years of living in Trent Woods, on the edge of New Bern in North Carolina, have turned me into a southern chap having no wish of moving snow ever again. But winter follows with its cold wet rainy days.....and nights. I don't need them. I spent this last Sunday afternoon noting all the little projects still on my list of things to do this past May or June. May I give you some examples?

First on the list is the submerging of my crab-trap, a professionally built dandy structure guaranteed to provide the user with untold quantities of blue clawed beauties. For whatever reasons, I have missed the opportunities to place odiferous scraps of bait into the trap, then tying a relatively thin length of marine line and settling it off the end of the finger-pier where sleeps the Jolly Tar. We take no females. This should have been done months ago. The task still is undone. Here is another mammoth task.

Old, peeling varnish coats the thwarts in the cockpit of the Jolly Tar. Also the hatchcover! All the wood is top quality teak. The structures were covered with varnish when I bought the old girl in 1985, and varnish them again and again I did. I should have sanded the wood and coated everything with teak-oil. No, I labored every spring time with scraping, sanding and varnishing. What was I thinking? Now comes the varnish remover, scraping and administration of teak-oil. It's just a simple task, but it still needs doing. Oh yes, it all takes time. More?

Yes, there is more. The top of the centerboard trunk needs a new coat of varnish. The pig-stick needs varnishing. The starboard rub rail needs to be sanded and varnished. The new, post-Florence finger-pier chewed away on it. Simple but awkward job, pier side while in the water. Still needs doing, oh, and here is a corker which is not known to all you power boaters.

The tack of the quadrilateral sail needs to be tied to the mast hoops. There are only six of these hoops, but there is a special way of making the ties. Done the wrong way the ties and hoops will jam and a weakling such as I will not be able to raise the sail on the appointed day. You think that's funny? I don't. Let's see what else needs attention?

The deck in the cockpit needs scrubbing and repainting. That will take a full shortened daylight day to accomplish, and the days are getting colder. Oh my, I forgot the painting of the cabin top. It will get done with a mellow, catboat sandy color. Okay, so what's the big deal? Just do them Ash, just do them! Yes, just do them! As I become discouraged when progress seems impossible, I call for help from the late Kenneth Graham who wrote the following:

“There is nothing, absolutely nothing, half so much worth doing as simply messing around in boats.”

I love 'them, there words' but, Kenneth, have you ever felt like a ninety-one year old scrapper-sander-painter, knot expert with fingers on the lame side? Or like a new ninety-two year old (I will have had a birthday during these encounters) trying to stand on a curved deck tipped fore and aft, with cramping and aching feet trying to tie the sail to the mast-hoops? I'll be lucky to get half of these done before Easter.

Just thought I'd share with you the last joke I shared with June Reasons.

What do you call a Hawaiian quiet laugh? A-low-ha

She loved it. Rather fitting now.
